Hunting in Argentina

Hunting in Argentina is with our partner, Argentina Bighunting, with its different climates and geographies Argentina offers many options to the novice and foreign hunters.

From the plains of Buenos Aires province to the mountains of Patagonia, crossing the scrublands of La Pampa province, our country offers a great variety of native and exotic species. Argentina is one of the most recognized hunting and fishing destinations around the world.

In Argentina, it is possible to hunt the following game: Red Deer, Buffalo, Fallow Deer, Blackbuck, Multi-Horned Sheep, Axis Deer, Peccary, Mouflon, Feral Goat, Puma, Wild Boar, Feral Sheep and Small Game.

Gun importation permit and hunting license value are subject to change according the Argentinean authorities policies.

The seasons are throughout the whole year except red stag and fallow deer. Their season goes from March to August.

Province La Pampa

Is located in the province of La Pampa; the heart of the big game hunting area and 450 miles from Buenos Aires.

Estancia La Mota:

The best way to get this great hunting area is by air through Santa Rosa airport located at 70 miles from the ranch. La Mota Lodge resides in a 57,000 acres ranch located along the salt lakes and calden forests of Utracan department in one of the wildest regions of Argentina. Hunters will be able to find the best quality available in the country for more of fifteen big game hunting species including red stag, axis deer, fallow deer, wild boar, blackbuck, water buffalo, multi horn ram and mouflon, among other game species.

It features nine double bedrooms with private bathroom in 10,000 square foot construction located next to Provincial Route 13. The lodge provides Wi-Fi Internet; satellite TV, cell phone service, SPA, Gym, and all the comfort required by the international standards. Meals are prepared by professional chefs based in finest Argentinean beef and game meat. Quality wine from the cellar of the ranch is another highlight of the place.

Estancia El Carrizal:

The best way to get this ranch from Buenos Aires is by plane through Bahia Blanca airport, which receives many daily flights from BA. The distance between this airport and the ranch is about of 100 miles.

Estancia El Carrizal is located in the province of La Pampa, very close to Bernasconi town. El Carrizal lodge resides in a 10,000 acres ranch located along the salt lakes and calden tree forests of Hucal department in one of the wildest regions of Argentina. Its facilities include eleven double bedrooms with private bathroom in 5,000 square foot construction located next to National Route 35.

The lodge provides Wi-Fi Internet, satellite TV, cell phone service and all the comfort required by the international standards. Meals are prepared by professional chefs based in finest Argentinean beef and game meat. Quality wine from the cellar of the ranch is another highlight of the place.

Because the abundance of the game, the comfort of the lodge, the quality of the services and the professionalism of the staff, hunters will find in Estancia El Carrizal one of the best hunting destinations in Argentina.

Recommended Equipment

It depends on the region and the season chosen by the hunter. Since Argentina doesn't have as extreme weather conditions as North America or Europe we recommend you bring clothing for mild/cold weather.

During our fall, we recommend light but strong shirts and trousers, wool sweater, hat and a heavy jacket just in case. Camo gear is allowed in Argentina.

For still hunts during the night (allowed in Argentina for several game as puma, wild boar and so on) heavier clothes are required because the nights can be cold. Special underwear, gloves and a warm hat are useful.

As for the footwear we recommend comfortable waterproof boots, suitable for long walks.
Don't forget your personal hygiene stuff.
Regarding the hunting equipment, the hunter is free to bring whatever considers useful for this hunt: binoculars, pocketknife, photo camera, flashlight and so on.
