HUNTING IN MAURITIUS

The best season for hunting is from July to Mid-November, however Mauritius has a subtropical climate and therefore it is generally recommended to travel in the period between July and October.

There are different game species that can be hunted, for example does, brockets, wild boars, pheasants, pigeons and guinea fowls (year-round).

Hunting here consists mainly of rusa deer and wild boars. Rusa deer, which are native to East Asia, can develop antlers that weigh up to 8kg.

We have found a reliable partner in G. D. V. LTD. who tailors each offer to the individual customer and perfectly organizes the hunts. The hunting ground encompasses approximately 4,000 ha and is located in the south of the island. The deer population is enormous, and battues can also be inquired about. With regard to physical condition hunters should be prepared, the region is hilly.

From the airport situated in the southeast, you have a short transfer to the hotel.
